RE: Letter of Recommendation - Carl Weil

To whom it may concern:

I am a personal injury and medical malpractice attorney practicing law in the State of California before the federal and state courts. In 2011 and 2012, I was lead counsel in the case of RC Everbeck v. Anonymous Content, LLC et al. LASC Case No.: SC106967. The Everbeck case involved a stunt actor who suffered serious personal injuries while rock climbing during the filming of a television commercial. I represented Plaintiff in an action brought against numerous defendants alleging personal injury and products liability.

During litigation, we affiliated with Mr. Carl Weil. Mr. Weil is highly qualified in the area of wilderness medicine and recreational activities. His Curriculum Vitae sheds some light on his skills and values. What is not mentioned is that Mr. Weil is very knowledgeable with rock climbing standards, recreational activity standards and the practices of the professionals from each activity. Mr. Weil provided expert review of our case, made site inspections, appeared for deposition and prepared for trial. Mr. Weil's unique knowledge of film and television along with his mountaineering background as a member of the American Mountain Guide Association was invaluable to our case.

Accordingly, I highly recommend Carl Weil as an expert in the area of recreation and mountaineering.

Very Truly Yours,

Randy Godin, Esq.
