Re: Carl Weil

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

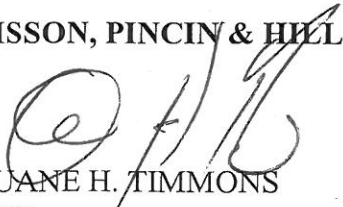

We utilized the expertise of Carl Weil regarding a litigation that pertained to a partnership in a bison operation located in Northern California. Finding someone with the knowledge that Mr. Weil has to offer pertaining to agriculture matters in general is extremely difficult. Mr. Weil was able to bring his years of knowledge pertaining to the commercial aspect of agricultural operations of today that relate to cattle raising, and was very capable in applying his expertise to the requirements of the day-to-day operation in raising and breeding of bison. He conducted extensive research and collected data as to special requirements that pertain to a bison operation, including handling, nutritional requirements, vaccinations, etc., as well as the market appeal of selling bison, both for breeding and meat production. Mr. Weil was able to apply his knowledge and extensive research to the allegations being asserted against our client to assist our office in protecting our client's interest. Mr. Weil was a continual source of information, as he did not stop in his efforts based on his initial researching efforts, but collected data, checked new literature, and had discussions with people involved in bison operations throughout North America to provide us with a wide scope of information to use for our client.

Mr. Weil was aggressively questioned in an all day deposition by the opposing party designed to provoke and challenge his own personal qualifications regarding agriculture matters. Despite unprecedented questions that were extremely offensive, Mr. Weil handled all questioning in a cool, professional manner, much to the opposing party's dismay.

Our office would definitely utilize Mr. Weil as an expert again in any agricultural case and strongly recommend him to you as well.

Very truly yours,
